Racism and Ministry

Last Wednesday, Bishop Robert Casey had a zoom meeting with his priests in Vicariate III on the topic of racism and ministry. I found the conversations to be helpful in light of the recent racially charged events in our country. This is an issue that not only challenges all ministers, but also all Christians and people as well. I want to share the examination of conscience questions that Bishop Casey invited his priests to reflect and pray about with you all.

Have I prayed, earnestly and regularly, for an end to racism and an increase in the understanding of the equal dignity of all those created in the image of God?

Have I sought ways to better educate myself about the structures of sin that perpetuate racism and that may have an unforeseen effect on the way I live my life?

Have I tried to gain a deeper understanding of the privileges and blessings I enjoy in my life and how these same privileges and blessings may not be enjoyed by others because of their race?

Have I been conscious of the existence of racism in world, naming it and recognizing it as a structure of sin?

Have I prayed for and actively sought after a greater understanding of systemic racism and have I been willing to enact real changes in my life to combat it?

Have I been willfully ignorant of the racism that I know exists in family, or my community, or my Church and I have been insensitive by ignoring it?

Have I looked for opportunities to enter into dialogue about racism with those with whom I would not ordinarily converse?

Have I desired to overcome indifference to racial violence and to push past the tendency to ignore it?

Have I asked God to forgive me for the times that I have contributed to racism, whether consciously or unconsciously, through jokes, conversations, criticisms, use of influence, or complaints?

Have I asked God to forgive my family members, my friends, my neighbors, and my fellow churchgoers who have deliberately participated in and perpetuated the sin of racism, and have I prayed for a conversion of their hearts?

Peace ~ Fr. Francis

Witnessing through Accompaniment By Thomas Howard

Some mistakenly believe that when it comes to sharing a faith testimony, priests and sisters should be recruited first and laypeople last. We are blessed with many active ministries here at St. Mother Teresa of Calcutta parish, where the creative action of the Holy Spirit is hard at work. It is wonderful when a layperson involved in one of our ministries steps up to the plate and willingly shares a faith witness.

Bette Pienta's experience during the RCIA baptisms a few weeks ago is highlighted below. The guiding question to keep in mind is: Can I emulate Mary, who accompanied Jesus to the very end?

Just a few days before the big evening on August 1st, the date was chosen to finally initiate several new members into our faith community, Bette was the first member of our evangelization team to volunteer to attend the mass and conduct a few interviews for our evangelization team. "Thanks in advance, Tom for picking me up. I know how hard it can be to find parking in Chinatown on a Saturday evening."

From the moment we arrived until hours later when we left, Bette was in her element, introducing herself to the RCIA elect encouraging them with both words and a smile hidden behind her mask. Her main task was to conduct a few interviews, delving into one's raw experience of grace discovered in the sacrament of baptism.

Fiona, Jing's, and my new goddaughter was one interview Bette conducted that evening. "I wanted to find out, first hand, how an immigrant family encounters the Catholic faith, Bette commented." Yo-Yo, Fiona's mother and pictured on the left, was also initiated into the faith that evening.

Bearing witness to Christ crucified, therefore, is often quite simple. Bette's openness to saying 'yes' to our team's invitation not only infused confidence and peace in the lives of the elect that she interacted with that beautiful summer night, but this experience also brought her great personal satisfaction and joy. "I absolutely love accompanying people as they enter the faith. Even though this was not the Easter Vigil, it did, nevertheless, bring back many wonderful memories for me in my Catholic journey. God is good!"

Daily Life by Sr. Caritas

Before I came to St. Therese, about fifteen or sixteen years ago, I had left another parish and was without a job or ministry. My doctor said the point I was at, was "The will of God". When he said that, it was the last thing I was thinking about. He suggested that I should have my second hip replaced. Another surgery was not what I wanted to do. He was persistent, so I did. After the surgery, recovery, and therapy, I was mostly pain free. The following January, I got up in the morning and found myself free of pain for the first time. I continue to be mostly pain free. My doctor was right. I did not see what could be. I would probably not be as healthy or active as I am now. Sometimes what we don't want is God's will and good for us.

Today's Gospel tells us that Jesus is preparing for His future death and resurrection. He is telling His apostles. Peter takes Jesus aside and says, "No such thing shall ever happen to you." This can't be what is supposed to happen. The Messiah is not supposed to happen. The Messiah is not supposed to end like Jesus reminds us that we all must carry our cross to follow Him.

Jesus reminds us that we all must carry our cross to follow Him. With the dawn of each day, we have another chance to carry our cross. Everyone has one suited to themselves. We have seen in Jesus' life that carrying our cross leads to a kind of resurrection which we do not see or know. If we seek Jesus and His way of life as we carry our cross, we know there is resurrection. Jesus tries to show us that crosses, difficulties, pain, and suffering are often the way to another kind of life, a new and better way of life. Seeking this kind of life means we will not lose life even when we die.

Each of us makes daily choices. God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit is with us and gives us the fullness of life appropriate to living as a Catholic Christian here in this world. As you and I end each day, looking back over choices we make through the day, we measure them to Jesus' life. Each of us is called to follow Him, love Him and love each other. That kind of life leads to eternal happiness that the "world" cannot give.
